

“Approaches to Painting - reprise” A Group Show Curated by Yoichi Umetsu

 sqrt k Contemporary

An exhibition of over 100 works, available for purchase, by approx. 30 post-war to contemporary artists.

sqrt k Contemporary is pleased to announce, “Approaches to Painting - reprise”, a group exhibition curated by Yoichi Umetsu, which will be on view through to January 31 (Sun).

Curated by the artist, Yoichi Umetsu, the exhibition elaborates upon Umetsu’s opening feature article for the 2020 December issue of Bijutsu Techo, “Approaches to Painting”. An opportunity to view and purchase the works by the artists highlighted in Umetsu’s article, the exhibition offers and presents approx. 100 works by approx. 30 post-war to contemporary artists.

Drawing works from various genres and periods, the exhibition seeks to unravel the ways art is viewed. The exhibition defies the singular, often redundant approach, and offers a view from multiple angles while re-examining the associated traits, histories and customs surrounding painting.

With the coronavirus pandemic, the art world was forced to undergo a reform and, while online viewings have increased, opportunities to view art directly has grown more valuable and rarified. As the world plunged into a crisis, a new consciousness has emerged and drew attention to how paintings are viewed by spectators and in relation to one another.

Gathering works from various genres and periods, Yoichi Umetsu, the planner and curator of the exhibition, “(hopes) this exhibition will compel viewers to reconsider their “Approach to Painting”.”

【Yoichi Umetsu | Exhibition Planner and Curator】

Born in Yamagata, 1982. Currently lives and works in Kanagawa, Japan. Graduated from the Department of Oil Painting, Fine Art, Tokyo Zokei Art University.

Umetsu is best known for his self-portraits and paintings that reinterpret early modern Japanese yoga paintings, such as, Floréal (Me) (2012-2014), where he takes Louis-Joseph-Raphaël Collin's painting, Floréal (1886) and replaces the female nude with himself, or Wisdom, Impression, Sentiment - A (2014), a four-panel painting inspired by Seiki Kuroda's iconic painting, Wisdom, Impression, Sentiment (1897–1900).

Fascinated by the places where art continually occurs, Umetsu addresses, both, the work of art and its surrounding institutions. Evincing this, his other works include video recordings of his performances, drawings, ceramic work, the founding and management of "Parplume Preparatory School" (2014-), a private school for artists in their twenties who are invited to live together and produce art, the supervision, management and planning of Parplume Gallery and writing.

Major exhibitions include the solo exhibition, "APMoA Project, ARCH vol.20 Umetsu Yoichi" (Aichi Prefectural Museum of Art, Aichi, Japan, 2017), "Parplume University and Yoichi Umetsu" (The Watari Museum of Contemporary Art, Tokyo, 2017), "Purple-ism in Purple Town" (Parplume Preparatory School and more, 2018), "Weavers of Worlds – A Century of Flux in Japanese Modern / Contemporary Art" (Museum of Contemporary Art Tokyo, 2019), "Full Frontal Nude Circulator" (Nihonbashi Mitsukoshi, MITSUKOSHI CONTEMPORARY GALLERY, 2020) and "Bubbles / Debris: Art of the Heisei Period 1989–2019" (Kyoto City KYOCERA Museum, 2021). Other works include "From Lamb to Mutton" (ART DIVER), a collection of his works, and the authoring of the special feature article, "Approaches to Painting", in the Dec 2020 issue of Bijutsu Techo.

√K Contemporary (Root K Contemporary) is an art gallery in Kagurazaka that opened March 2020. The gallery is located on the 1st and 2nd floor of a new art complex owned by Kashima Arts and amounts a total of 300-square-meters in space. Amidst the tightly clustered buildings of central Tokyo, it is one of the largest exhibition spaces that allows visitors to experience art without spatial constraints.

Founded by Japanese calligraphy and old painting specialists, √K Contemporary aspires to establish and support new art scenes by building on the foundations of predecessors. Aspiring to create the next art scene, the founders designed the gallery with the hopes of establishing a spatially and temporally neutral and universal place. The gallery's futuristic aesthetic complements the sizable space and liberates the artworks and interiors from any sociohistorical associations.

In hosting exhibitions by post-war to present-day artists, √K Contemporary seeks to bring a new culture of Japanese modern art into fruition. In addition to presenting works by emerging artists, √K Contemporary aims to organize original events that introduces art to a wider audience.
